WAR APPROACHING.

Russian Troops Concentrating on the Frontier.

AUSTRIA MASSING HER TROOPS.

Great Activity in the War Office at Vienna—Germany Decides to Strengthen Her Garrisons—Crisis at Buenos Ayres—Flight Among the Workmen—Other News from Abroad.

LONDON, April 9.—The Standard's St. Petersburg and Jassy correspondents continue to report activity among the Russian troops, great numbers of which are being massed on the Austro-Hungarian frontier. The Jassy correspondent gives detailed accounts of the movement of the troops.

A Vienna dispatch says that the Austrian government, not being reassured by Russia's denial of unfriendly designs, has already concentrated large bodies of troops at Karlof and Brody to watch the Galician frontier. The tenth corps, under Leidkunder, has been reinforced by a portion of the First corps, and Prince Windischgratz, of the eleventh, is watching the frontier with a large force of cavalry.

Cunt Hartmann, formerly Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, who is now an officer in Austrian service, has been called into consultation at the war office with the view of utilizing his services in an important command. The Austrian authorities have great confidence in the abilities of the prince, which were proven in the war between Serbia and Bulgaria. It is said that the Austrian government has important secret information from Russia, which is the basis of its warlike preparations.

Apparently by some understanding with Austria, Germany has suddenly begun to increase the forces near the Russian frontier and has sent the commander of the works intended to facilitate the transportation of troops.

All indications go to show that a Russian invasion would be made by formidable armadas, whether first directed against Austria or Germany or both countries at once. On the French side Germany has a series of fortresses that could not fail to delay invasion long enough to give ample time for the concentration of an army.

Riot Among Workmen.

MOSCOW, April 9.—News has reached this city of a serious riot at Hof in Upper Franconia on the Saale. It appears that a number of imported Poles were engaged in laying a cable at that place when they were fiercely attacked by unemployed Saxons and Bavarian workmen. The Poles resisted, and a desperate struggle ensued. Stones, sticks, and, in some instances, knives were used by both parties. In the melee twenty-five men were more or less seriously wounded. The police were unable to cope with the enraged workmen, and it was found necessary to call on the troops of the garrison for assistance in restoring order. The military responded promptly and succeeded in quieting the disturbance.

Crisis at Buenos Ayres.

Buenos Ayres, April 9.—Advices from Buenos Ayres say that the Argentine cabinet yesterday signed a decree suspending until next June the payment of the deposits in the National and Provincial banks, and offering to depositors the option of taking internal bonds in exchange for their deposits. A fusion of both banks into one concern, to be known as the Banco de la Nación, is proposed by the government. The decree, which was unexpected, has created an unfavorable impression in financial circles.

Germany Strengthening Her Forces.

BERLIN, April 9.—In consequence of the Russian massing of troops on the Galician and Silesian frontiers, the German government has decided to strengthen the eastern frontier garrisons.

News of the Massacre Confirmed.

LONDON, April 9.—A letter from the leader of the Manupolis confirms the statement that Commissioner Quinton and all the prisoners taken at the time of the attack on the British residence at Manupolis were murdered.

MOURNING FOR BARNUM.

Flags at Half Mast Displayed at the Great Showman's Home.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 9.—Flags are displayed at half mast and emblems of mourning are general throughout the city for the loss of the well-known citizen, P. T. Barnum.

The funeral has been set for 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, and it is probable that the services will be held in the South Congregational church as its seating capacity is the largest in the city.

Mr. Barnum bears up remarkably well, and though much fatigued from loss of sleep, rests comfortably as could be expected. She has received numerous telegrams of sympathy. Mr. Barnum leaves an estate valued at $5,000,000, and the executors named are Maj. W. B. Jackson, treasurer of the City Savings bank, this city, and Benjamin Fiske, treasurer of the Barnum and Bailey show.

Death for a Dollar.

CINCINNATI, April 9.—Last evening J. J. Kitchin, the white-washer, living at 1115 Elm street, was instantly killed by an 11th street car at 1100. The little fellow attempted to cross the track near Elm by street when a run down by a passing car. The wheels passed over his head, severing his head from his body and driving his brain over the tracks.

SENATOR EDMUNDS RESIGNS.
Personal Considerations Oblige Him to Terminate His Public Services.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Senator George F. Edmunds of Vermont, who has been in the senate of the United States since April, 1889, and nearly all of that time has been one of the Republican leaders, has resigned, the resignation to take effect the first day of November next.

THE SENATOR'S REASONS.
Senator Edmunds was asked for a statement of the reasons for his resignation. "I have resigned," said he, "from personal considerations only. It is a matter of health. I cannot live in Washington during the winter. I suffer from throat trouble and the climate is too severe. I hold that a senator should attend to his duties, and if I cannot remain in Washington constantly I prefer to resign. I shall spend the winters in Aiken, S. C., visiting Washington occasionally to attend the sessions of the supreme court when I have business before it."

Montgomery, Vt., April 9.—Governor Page, upon receiving Senator Edmunds' resignation, sent a reply to Mr. Edmunds, expressing sincere regret at his action in behalf of himself and the people of Vermont, and assuring him that in securing his official relations to the state he does so, enjoying the full measure of gratitude, respect and the affection to which his long and eminent distinguished services entitle him.

Want to Succeed Edmunds.
SENATOR EDMUNDS' RESIGNATION caused much surprise. The candidates for his place are Secretary Proctor, Congressman H. H. Powers, and Governor George V. Smith. The governor appoints, as the legislature is not in session.

ECHOES OF THE ELECTION.
The Mayoralty Contest in Chicago still undecided elsewhere.

CINCINNATI, April 9.—It is now claimed by the Democrats that all the returns have been received and the vote for mayor stands: Cregier, Democrat, 49,700; H. W. Washburn, Republican, 46,700; Cregier's plurality, 35.

The Republicans on the other hand maintain that the Hough-steel Washburn has been elected, and only the official count will decide which is mayor. J. B. Van Cleave, Republican, for city clerk, and B. E. Cichy, son, Republican, for city attorney are elected beyond doubt. Peter Kiellaston, Democrat, for city treasurer, is probably elected by a plurality of 300 or 400.

In Minnesota and South Dakota.
SENATE, April 9.—The municipal elections in Minnesota have but little political significance. They show that the Alliance strength is being maintained everywhere and is creeping into the cities and towns. As far as can be learned, 50 per cent of the Alliance strength is drawn from the Legumbreans.

In South Dakota, Watertown elected a Democratic mayor, the first of the successful ticket being E. J. Johnson.

At Huron, the Republicans got everything except the police magistrate.

At Pacific, Col.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—The election in this city resulted in a Democratic victory. Hammie H. Moore, was elected mayor by 221 majority. The Republicans lost their treasurer and two aldermen.

At Moline, Ill.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—The remains of William Cregier were found Tuesday morning lying near the Indianapolis track at Crescencetown, a few yards past the station and just across the Hamlin county line. His right arm was broken and the back of his head crushed in. His pocket was found a lot of weighing from Port Union, which he was collecting implements for the time when he was struck by a train and killed. The body, however, is not at all mangled. The real cause of his death is a mystery. It might be seen that he was mangled. It is generally supposed, however, that he met his death on the rail. He had a wife and two children in Crescencetown.

Has a suicide mania struck this locality? It really looks as though poor Howard Whitby had succeeded in disposing of himself.

The Mirror seems in high glee over an alleged scoop of an attempted suicide. The facts were in possession of the Sivs long ago, but a request was made for the suppression of the news on the ground that a second attempt was sure if the matter was published. We suggested at the time that the other papers should be likewise requested and were amused at the reply: "Oh, no one will see it if they do publish it."

The council has its eyes opened all at once on the matter of city printing. The Clerk has complied with the law in publishing a detailed exhibit and his orders can't be repudiated. He may have been a little liberal in making the publication so general, but his authority can't be disputed. The statutes and the council have authorized him. The publications last spring were just as general, though not in detailed form. If this spring's experience calls a little business attention to the matter of public printing, then Clerk Davis has brought about a good thing.

She Is an American Girl.

All the romance is not found within the covers of books, as is evidenced by the pretty little story told of the original of the portrait here given, which represents Lady St. Vincent, of England, sister of the celebrated beauty the Duchess of Leinster.

Lady St. Vincent was a Miss Duncombe, and was born in Philadelphia of an English father and an American mother, and she passed her happy childhood there. As her father was a very wealthy man, her education was thorough, her taste leading her somewhat toward mathe-

Modest and retiring in her manners, she never strove for the admiration that was surely hers by right of beauty and attainments, and in fact she was scarcely "out" when her father lost all of his fortune and the family was nearly reduced to beggary.

At this period Miss Duncombe sought and obtained a position in the mint in Philadelphia, and as she was so quick at figures she soon rose to a position that brought with it a salary large enough to support the family comfortably if not luxuriously.

One day a party of English tourists passed through the mint to see its workings, and one of them paused before a nimble-fingered young girl whose beauty shone brighter than the gold heaped up around her. That was the beginning, and the end, after several months of courtship, was that Miss Duncombe became Lady St. Vincent and went to England to live.

Her sister married the Duke of Leinster, and her beauty and royal toilet have been for several years the admiration of the world; but Lady St. Vincent is most modest and retiring, even shrinking painfully from public notice, though really more beautiful than her sister. Lady St. Vincent has large soft blue eyes and golden hair and an almost childlike face, and she has a happier look on her countenance than has the duchess.

All for a Slight Error.

The Berlin correspondent of a syndicate of provincial papers is responsible for the following story: "On the occasion of the re-assembling of the holy synod in the Russian capital it was resolved to forward to his majesty, in accordance with traditional usage, the archiepiscopal benediction. The clerk who was employed to prepare the document formally communicating the plous resolution made a curious mistake. By a slip of the pen he wrote an interlocutor instead of archiepiscopal, and the resolution was forwarded without the error being detected.

"When the czar received it he laughed heartily and wrote on the margin, 'I have no need of such a blessing.' He then dismissed the matter from his mind. The document, however, with the imperial annotation, found its way back to the holy synod, and produced among the members of that body the greatest surprise and consternation. Without stopping to investigate the matter the ecclesiastics who were responsible for the resolution jumped to the conclusion that they had in some way or other incurred the czar's displeasure, and that his majesty's comment was an intimation to them that they were expected immediately to resign.

"They accordingly went in a body to the imperial palace and humbly tendered their joint and several resignations. It was now the turn of the czar to be overwhelmed with amazement, and it was only after a good deal of embarrassment and reciprocal explanations that the matter was set right. The interview terminated with a mild hint on the part of his majesty that, even in the records of religious bodies, verbal accuracy is a very desirable quality."

The Time for Pansy Beds.

There is nothing more attractive in the early spring than a pansy bed. In order to secure blossoms early the plants must have attained a proper size under glass. It is necessary, therefore, to sow pansy seed early. Any long wooden box fitted into a sunny window in a moderately cold room, but where it does not freeze, will do for a seedbox. Be sure the earth is rich, well fertilized with thoroughly rotted compost and woodmold, and that it is fine and friable, so the tiny seed can easily thrust down their slender roots in it. Keep the earth moderately moist after sowing the seed, and in a short time the little plants will be up and growing.

It requires some resolution to thin out the greater portion of them in order to give those that are left sufficient room to grow, but this must be done without sparing or all the plants will be weaklings. Very pretty effects can be produced by raising a box of white or nearly white pansies for a border, and a box of mixed, dark, velvety ones for the center of the bed. These quaint, blotched, lovely flowers seem more like living things than any other blossom. "Old ladies" is the German name for them, but the English name of pansy from "four thoughts" has a touch of finer fancy.—New York Tribune.

Presents at Easter.

The custom of giving Easter presents grows every year, and now this festival is second only to the supreme one of Christmas in this regard. A few years ago an Easter card, or at most an egg-shaped bonbonniere filled with sweetmeats, was the height of a giver's ambition. Now the limit is difficult to set. A palm in a hundred dollar jar, a priceless Wattane fan or an old miniature, rare and costly, may do duty as an Easter offering if the string is especially worshipped and your purse is in keeping with your desire.

The egg element has been considerably eliminated in the modern Easter, bonbon boxes having suddenly taken on an almost indefinite variety. Those in Dresden china are undoubtedly the most to be prized. Certainly porcelain candy boxes are the most sensible, as they outlive the confection and the day. One box, however, of $150 paid for a hand-painted bonbonniere exquisitely decorated with ribbons, feathers and real lace—all of which, barring the lace, is quickly perishable, considering the price. Beautiful gifts are the small portrait screens which are copies in miniature of Louis Seize designs and the Sèvres chairs in Dresden.—New York Times.

Giving New York Children Vacation.
Those who apply for a chance to send their children to the country are instructed that they must be poor and needy, without any infectious disease, clean and free from vermin. A physician then inspects each child. Dr. C. V. Vinton was the examining physician last year, and he examined nearly 15,000 children, of whom about 5,000 were sent into the country. Each day the board of health furnishes a list of the houses where there is any contagious disease, which was of imminent help. With that list before him it was easy for the examiner to stop any child who came from an infected house. The majority were refused on account of their hopelessness as to vermin. It is a herculean task to get the average tenement house child in a suitable condition to be received into country families.—Rev. Willard Parsons in St. Moritz.

FOUR UNIQUE WOMEN.

KATE FIELD, MRS. LIPPINCOTT, MAR-
QUERITE MOORE, MRS. BLAKE.

Edith Sessions Tupper Writes Charmingly of the Life, Aims and Personality of These Leaders in the Movement That Is Making This the Woman's Age.

(Special Correspondence.)

New York, April 6.—When one speaks of unique women one thinks instinctively of Margot or Mrs. Moore. This lady is decidedly unique in a manner. She is an Irish woman, and very proud of the fact that she was incarcerated for three months in Tallaght jail, Ireland, for the crime of sowing sedition among her people's subjects. Mrs. Moore is the friend of the leading Irish agitators. She labored hard in the cause of home rule, speaking, working and taking her chance as a man. So much was her influence feared that a prominent Tory paper advised that she be tried for the two of a cardinal political felony.

Mrs. Moore is now an American citizen, and greatly interested in all reform movements. She is a brilliant and electrifying speaker, having the power to sway and bend her audiences at will, moving them to tears at one moment and arousing them to laughter the next by a laugh or genuine Irish wit. In appearance she is tall, slender and stately, with red, blazing gravy-s— the real Irish eyes, in which fire and dew are closely mingled—dark brown hair, a straight nose, and the most delicious brogue imaginable. With her three pretty daughters she lives in a tiny flat on West Fifteenth street, and there one finds the heartiest welcome and the most delightful cup of tea in the world.

Another attraction is an astonishing patriot, who with true Hibernian patriotism shrieks, "God save Ireland" and "Erin go bragh."

The question of police matrons, which is now settled affirmatively in many cities, was set on foot by Little Devereux of Kate Field, who is without question one of the most unique and picturesque characters of the day. There is scarcely anything this lady has not turned her hand to—the stage, the shop, the lecture platform, the writing desk, and now the editor's chair. She understands politics much better than most men; she proved more of a power against Mormonism than all the laws enacted against this hideous stain upon our government; she was a splendid "drummer" for the California wine companies, and I am sure she could conduct a post-mortem or preach from any text quite as well as the average doctor of medicine or divinity.

Miss Field's latest venture is the bright, spicy and newsy paper published by her at the national capital under the title Kate Field's Washington. It is a success. Miss Field is an enthusiast over Washington, believing it to be the "hub of the nation" as she aptly expresses it. I well remember an evening spent with Miss Field in the Victoria hotel in this city before the paper was started. She had just decided on its name, and in her enthusiasm she rose from her famous steamer chair, which has traveled from bay to Beersheba with her, and trailing her skirts of gray satin up and down the room shouted, in excited imitation of a newsboy's cry, "Here's the Washington—Kate Field's Washington!" while the onlookers roared at her mimicry.

Lippincott, or "Grace Greenwood," as she is known in the world of letters. Grace Greenwood was a pioneer in newspaper work. Her Washington correspondence inaugurated a quite new feature in journalism, and her conservative friends were wont to tell her that if she persisted in her "blue stocking" ideas and aims her chances of getting a husband would be materially injured.

But the young lady had a mind and will of her own, and persevered with what signal success all the world knows.

A stranger found in the Oleytangy near Delaware—A B. H. that it is Howard Whithy, of this city.

Tuesday forenoon the body of a unknown man was found on the bank of the Oleytangy river, a couple of miles below Delaware. The coroner of Delaware county made an inquest, and found an only wound on top of the head, and the skull had the appearance of having been cut with a sharp instrument. Two other deep wounds were revealed on the forehead, penetrating the brain. The following is a description of the man, as given by the coroner: "He was about 5 feet, 6 inches tall, black hair and mustache, well built and muscular. He wore a black cotton coat, blue vest and black diagonal cloth pants."

The body had been in the water, and during a late rise in the river had floated into an accumulation of drift, where it had remained for several days apparently. The remains were in an advanced stage of decomposition, and were buried where found. Nothing was found on the remains by which the identity of the man could be established, but there is a belief that he was Howard Whithy, of this city, who mysteriously disappeared from his home here Tuesday, February 17th, nearly seven weeks ago. The buttons on the dead man's pantaloons bore the trade mark of Williams & Leffler, and it is possible that this incident may lead to the identification, which strengthens the belief that the body is that of Whithy. Williams & Leffler made Whithy's clothes, and a button was obtained of them today and taken to Delaware by Major Dudley for comparison. Mr. Dudley was familiar with the man's actions previous to his rather mysterious departure.

Since leaving the city not a word has been heard from Whithy, and it has remained the belief of his acquaintances that he had committed suicide. This opinion has been strengthened by the fact that the man attempted to take his own life by taking a large dose of laudanum on the Sunday previous to going away. The dose apparently was too large, at least it only had the effect of causing the man to sleep from 10 o'clock in the morning until 7 in the evening. It however seemed not to deter Whithy from his intention of自杀, for about the last that was seen of him here he declared that he would succeed.

A week before leaving the city Whithy had engaged work at the harness shop of T. J. Magruder, took his tools there and left them and promised to return to work the following Monday, negotiating the loan of a few dollars before going. It was well known that Whithy was inclined to suicide, having attempted it the first time a few years ago, after the death of his first wife, and only being resuscitated by hard work.

The man gave as a reason for his last attempt here of self-destruction, to annoy domestic troubles, which he claimed he could not tolerate. When last seen here on the day he left Whithy was in a melancholy state of mind, and is said to have declared to an acquaintance that he had a place selected where he could kill himself and not be interrupted.

The First Big Rehearsal.

City Hall was the scene of "youth, beauty and music" last night, as the musical critic says. Fully fifty people were there at this, the first general rehearsal of that most delightful of all of Gilbert and Sullivan's works, Pinafore.

It was a sight to gladden the hearts of the ladies of the W. R. C., who had labored so assiduously to make this, their first attempt at an enterprise of such magnitude, a grand success.

"A work well begun is half done" has been truly said; Mr. and Mrs. Herrmann F. Gruendler were very enthusiastic in their praises for the good showing made. They in company with Mr. H. E. Hall arrived last night from Kenton and are registered at the Hotel Marion. Their engagement at the latter place, benefit of the Public Library last Monday evening, was one of the "biggest successes" ever known in the city. The Grand, their elegant opera house, was crowded, and the young people in the cast scored an instantaneous hit. So great was the interest manifested in the opera that a second performance was arranged for, and an equal division of the profits was tendered the widow of the police officer, Ed Harper (who was foully murdered there last week). The house was again crowded Tuesday evening and the receipts exceeded those of the night previous.

The ladies of the Marion W. R. C. will doubtless make a big success of their engagement here the 20th of this month.

Hardware Selling at Cost.

Steel hatchet cash price 35c, former price 50; a good ax for 75c; three pairs of carpet tacks for 5c; 10 to 20 cent. off on table knives and forks, spoons, shears and scissors and pocket knives. The Queen Wash-Machine price reduced from $8.00 to $6.50. It pays to pay cash.

THE CITY COUNCIL

The Old Body Closing Up Its Career With Lots of Business—Sidewalk Ordinance Passed—Full Report of the Proceedings.

The mayor, clerk, Councilmen Kling, Leffler, Saiter, Roberts, Porch and Leib were present at the adjourned meeting of the city council Wednesday evening. Considerable business was transacted, there being a disposition on the part of the body to close up all the business before it before retiring. The street and alley committee reported upon the petition of S. H. Barratt, asking for relief from the nuisance of including coal wagons along North street near his residence. The solicitor had prepared a written opinion on the subject, on the authority of which the committee recommended that the mayor and marshal arrest any or all persons obstructing in any way said street, in accordance with the ordinance regulating such matters. A motion was made to accept the report of the committee, which was carried unanimously.

The petition of Geo. B. Christian and others, praying for the extension of Leader street southward, was reported upon by the committee. The cost of construction, passing under the railroad, etc., was estimated at $4700, $5000 of which, in the opinion of the committee, should fall upon the county commissioners. The report recommended the extension northward to Garden City pike, in order to admit travel from that thoroughfare. A sub-petition, praying for such extension, was also recommended. The report of the committee was accepted unanimously.

Ordinances establishing grades on Sugar, Darius, Herman and Wood streets were given the proper readings and adopted.

A lengthy resolution, condemning property for the purpose of opening up Pearl street, in response to a petition praying for the same, was read and finally adopted.

A general sidewalk resolution was presented, providing for the construction of numerous walks. The resolution was adopted.

The committee on accounts reported the usual number of bills, with some additional, among them three printers' bills. The latter were laid over until the next meeting for investigation, while the others were ordered paid.

The street and alley committee reported the matter of the sale of dwelling house on Olney avenue, which fell into the hands of the city through the opening of that thoroughfare. The city has an offer of $350 from Thomas Hagan. The committee was instructed to accept the same.

The treasurer's report was read and that of the street commissioner presented. A committee was appointed to investigate the latter, according to provisions made.

Council adjourned until Tuesday evening, April 14th, when the sewer contract will be made.
